ABOUT FOSTER

Foster Nicholson is a stand-up comedian and actor born in Brooklyn, New York, and raised in Howell, New Jersey. With more than 20 years of stand-up experience, Foster has built a reputation for his sharp storytelling, quick wit, and relatable perspective on everyday life.

In 2025, Foster was crowned the New Jersey Shore Comedy Competition Champion and recently performed at the world-renowned Apollo Comedy Club in Harlem, New York. His energetic stage presence and authentic style have made him a favorite with audiences throughout the Northeast.

Offstage, Foster is a devoted husband, the proud father of six, and a foster parent alongside his wife. Their experiences opening their home to more than 15 foster children over the past nine years provide a unique perspective that often finds its way into his comedy.

Whether he's performing in a comedy club, theater, or private event, Foster brings audiences together through honest, high-energy comedy that proves the funniest stories are often the most real.
